The Lessons We Learn

In the installation charge we are told “The Order of Patrons of Husbandry is the only association whose teachings accompany its members in their daily pursuits. They form part of our lives. They do not call us from our work to put our mind upon any other subject, but furnish recreation in our daily duties, and, by cheerful instruction, lighten and elevate our labor. These teachings are the loftiest that man can seek.” As we look through the manual there are lessons on every page.

This contest encourages members to choose one of the lessons that have been selected and think deep about what the lesson means to you and how you apply it to your daily life. This is a two-part contest. The first part consists of an essay of what the lesson means to you and how you apply it to your life. The second part will be a scrapbook page showing how you carry out the lessons and apply them to your life. Entries can be submitted for part one only, part two only or as a combination of both parts. All entries must be completed between October 1, 2022, and September 30, 2023. Entries due to state lecturer by October 15, 2023

The contest will be judged in three categories:

- A. Essay only
- B. Scrapbook page only
- C. Both Essay and scrapbook page

The lessons to choose from are:

“Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap”

“Cultivate the habit of looking for better and brighter days, instead of mourning over the past.”

“Look with earnest solicitude upon children and their welfare: and remember that they are to follow in our footsteps and occupy our position. What a child sees makes the most lasting impression.”
